The Market

The Far Eastern Federal District, territory of which amounts to 36.4 % of the total area of Russia, is the largest Russian region. Agriculture is an important sector of the region's economy. Fish farming, cultivation of soybean, grain, vegetables and potatoes, as well as dairy and beef cattle breeding are of high importance. The total agricultural area including pasture fields, amounts to 137 mln. ha, which is only 22 % of the total area of the region. The Far East is of strategic character due to its proximity to China, Japan and Korea. From 2017 to 2020 the region will receive funds from the Federal Budget in the amount of 8.4 bln. Rubles to support agriculture, in particular for development of infrastructure and modernization of agricultural machinery.

Vladivostok is the administrative center of the region Primorye and is located just 50 km from the Chinese border. The „free port of Vladivostok“ offers enterprises located on its territory reduced tax rates and other preferences.

The interest of producers and distributors of agricultural machinery, equipment and production means in the region is high because it receives substantial support from the Russian government due to its proximity to the rapidly developing APEC region and its strategic character.

The Exhibition

The first edition of AgroExpoVostok will be held together with the long-established DalAgro.Food, a food and food-processing exhibition, from March 15 to 17, 2018 near Vladivostok. The organizers of AgroExpoVostok, DLG RUS and IFWexpo Heidelberg, will focus on agricultural machinery, crop production, animal husbandry, fish farming and bioenergy. For both exhibitions, 90 exhibitors and about 5,000 visitors are expected in 2018.
